

Remembering Decembers

I'm remembering Decembers,
in the quiet of the evening.
I'm recalling winter moments long ago.

~~Life through the eyes of a child then,
playing games in the snow with my best friends.
And now, how it warms my heart.
Life was at the start.~~

I'm remembering Decembers,
spent with loved ones,
filled with laughter.
Time was moving so much slower in those days.

There was wonder and joy in the small things.
I can still feel it now when the bells ring.
They ring like they did before. ~~before.~~
My heart is filled once more.

The candle lanterns glowing in the snow ignite my memories leading me back home.
The seasons turn with lessons learned as life
unveils its play, in its own way.

I'll remember this December,
I'll forever hold it closely.
When I look back on this season
I'll recall time with you,
by your side, spent together.

In my dreams these are days
I will treasure.
So now, come and join with me.
Join with me.
Make a memory. (mm)
